Welcome

Macon, Georgia is "Where Soul Lives"

Full of music, art, history and culture, Macon has a vibe all its own.

Discover Macon's music heritage ranging from The Allman Brothers Band to Little Richard, from Otis Redding to Jason Aldean. Southern Rock, Country or Soul music – it all started here.

Dive 17,000 years into the past at Ocmulgee National Monument and the mounds built by ancient Indian tribes. Admire the Italian Renaissance Revival Style architecture of the historic Hay House and imagine Reconstruction-era life at The Cannonball House.

Experience Macon during one of our many festivals, a full calendar that marks us as the "Festival Capital of Georgia."

Enjoy Macon's Southern charm in the welcome of our residents. See it in the spring blossoms of 350,000 Yoshino cherry trees. Sip it from a frosted mug from one of our craft breweries or pubs. And savor our delicious food from locally sourced menus.

Macon is a driving destination. Street parking is available in most of Historic Downtown Macon. A free Electronic Vehicle Charging Station is in front of the Bibb County Courthouse, at the corner of Mulberry and Second streets in downtown. Free Tesla charging stations are behind our Downtown Visitor Information Center.

Discover "Where Soul Lives" at VisitMacon.org. Schedule a Soul Sights Guided Van Tour (you can also call or visit our Downtown Visitor Center or book online to schedule a tour). Show us how you visit Macon! Macon: The Festival Capital of Georgia

Join in the Fun

Macon packs the calendar with festivals.

Macon's soul can be experienced year-round in festivals and community events that are as epic as its history and as vibrant as its people.

Visitors arrive in droves to "The Festival Capital of Georgia" to experience a variety of events, some as intimate as the monthly First Friday and others as expansive as the annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

In 2017, more than 48,000 people attended these famed events which included the International Cherry Blossom Festival, the Tubman Museum's Pan African Festival, Just Tap'd Craft Beer Festival, the Macon Film Festival, Bragg Jam Music Festival, and the Ocmulgee Indian Celebration.

Each festival celebrates a unique attribute that Macon offers, from spring-time blooms, history and heritage to music and even craft beer. "If it can be celebrated, Macon has a festival that rejoices in it," said Julie Wilkerson, executive director of the Macon Arts Alliance.

Several of the festivals that have been taking place in Macon for more than 20 years including Bragg Jam and the Pan African Festival, continue growing in Macon for a variety of reasons. "The City's cooperation with the event, added to the musical heritage, and warm, friendly and inviting population, it's no wonder we see more and more outside ticket holders coming every year," said Leila Regan-Porter, Bragg Jam marketing co-chair.

Apart from the prime location and strong community support, Macon also offers a variety of dining and recreational options that entertain visitors long after the festival lights fade. "Over the last five to ten years, Macon has exploded with new restaurants, venues, and festivals," said Lisa Lemon, business manager for Ocmulgee National Monument Association.

Kaitlynn Kressin, marketing director for Just Tap'd and Ocmulgee Brewpub agreed. "There are so many captivating destinations in Macon, Georgia that really any excuse one can get to come here, they should take it!"

For more information on Macon's exciting festivals, see page 15.

Restaurants & Nightlife

It's All About the Food

Fill your plate with the best of Macon.

Soul food doesn't necessarily mean fried chicken, succulent meatloaf and collard greens, although H&H Soul Food serves up a delicious plate of just that. Macon offers a lot of "soul food," from the award-winning steakhouse menu at The Tic Toc Room to the hand-crafted burgers and famous shakes (banana ice cream, peanut butter and bacon milkshake, anyone?) from The Rookery. Indulge your palate with unforgettable local flavors from the following list of Macon restaurants.
