The Land of Sights & Legends
Welcomes you to discover, explore, and enjoy, the many treasures of the past & present cultures of our region.

Rustic Settings
Mountain towns and Main Street Cities, legendary attractions, luxurious resorts, charming B&Bs, waterside cottages and cabins, the adventure sites of the Chattahoochee National Forest, Civil War battlefields and prehistoric American Indian dwellings, southern farms, grist mills and covered bridges await your visit to “The Enchanted Land,” so named by the Cherokee Indians.

Patchwork Stories
From the oral histories of early Native tribes to the creation of the Cherokee alphabet, this region of Georgia inspired many colorful stories. The journals of early pioneers and Civil War soldiers combined with individual life histories tell of a history unique to northwest Georgia. A visit here will introduce you to industrious women, writers, film stars, musicians and artists.

Timeless Seasons
Winters mild, kissed with frost and the occasional snowflake. Springtime sparkling with dew-dampened blossoms and wildlife renewed. Summers green with sheltering shade. Autumn colors as bright and vivid as the patches of Grandmother’s quilt. Northwest Georgia is the perfect setting to make legendary memories in any season.

Close to home
In less than one hour from Atlanta Ga., Birmingham Ala., and Chattanooga Tenn., you could begin your memorable getaway: relax by fire, have tea on an antique square, raft thrilling rapids, walk in historic footsteps, climb pristine mountains, shop designer sales, pick apples and drink fresh dairy milk, dine on world-class cuisine, resort to luxury, tee off on a championship course, ride a roller coaster or antique carousel, and see seven states. Your fun awaits in the 17 beautiful counties of Northwest Georgia!

OUTDOOR RECREATION

Appalachian Trail
The People's Path, and America's First National Scenic Trail. A public footpath across 2,155 miles of Appalachian Mountain from Katahdin, Maine to Springer Mountain, GA. A vision of regional planner Benton MacKaye, this trail winds through scenic wooded lands offering a treat for many wishing to escape urban life. Primarily used for day hikes, nature enthusiasts have been known to pack the entire route. 304-535-6331, AppalachianTrail.org

Benton MacKaye Trail
The trail is named for the man who proposed the Appalachian Trail. While the Appalachian Trail follows the eastern crest of the Appalachian Mountains, the Benton MacKaye follows the western crest. Approximately 50 miles Cities: Blue Ridge-Dahlonega-Ellijay, bmta.org

Pinhoti Trail
This multistate, multipurpose trail connects Alabama to the west with the southern terminus of the Appalachian Trail at Springer Mountain, GA. This route uses the Benton MacKaye Trail to connect to the Appalachian Trail. Forest trails, woods roads, county roads, and limited segments of highways comprise these trails. Much of the Pinhoti Trail (outside the Armuchee Ranger District of the Chattahoochee National Forest) is still under development. Road walks do not currently have Pinhoti Trail marking since the route along roads is considered interim. 706-766-3800, GeorgiaPinhoti.org

Silver Comet Trail
Imagine gliding along on your bike through the north Georgia countryside, crossing a 500-foot-long trestle over a rushing river below, winding between rock cliffs and weaving among tall stately pines. The 60 miles of the Silver Comet Trail in Georgia is closed to motor vehicles. The trail begins near the intersection of Mt. Paran Road and Northside Parkway in Cobb County, and runs west through Rockmart and Cedartown to the Alabama border. From there, it will join the Chief Ladiga trail being built in Alabama. Sixty miles of paved trail for non-motorized recreation in the countryside of west Georgia. SilverCometGa.com

Lookout Mountain Flight Park is the largest and most popular full-time hang gliding school and resort in the United States. Each year, the school teaches, certifies and solos five times as many pilots as any other school. Hang gliders launch from 1,340-foot McCarty’s Bluff, and the flight park includes a 110-acre mountain resort with camping and lodging conveniently located in it landing zone.

When the park is open, morning classes are offered (weather permitting) every day of the year (except Christmas Day). Hang gliding lessons and tandem flights are given by certified instructors. There are also special events and clinics, and lesson package discounts for groups of five or more. Lodging is available for members and persons using the flight park.

Group Guided Activities
